Chairperson's Message

This has been another busy year for the Staff and Board of Career Trek. The focus was on putting into place the systems and mechanisms needed to strengthen and support the programs and services Career Trek provides - to build stronger foundations.

Over a nine month timeline which ended in April 2015, Sally Fazel of Pelee Consulting worked with senior staff and some board members on the Innoweave Impact and Strategic Clarity process. We rolled out the findings to the rest of the staff and board later in the spring. In early October, the Board of Directors elected to work with Sally to determine the strategic plan for Career Trek based on the Innoweave process. We have some work to do but we are off to a good start.

I always enjoy working with the dynamic and dedicated Career Trek team of professionals – both the board and the staff. While this has, again, been a year of flux for Career Trek, Darrell and the team continue to work hard to make improvements to better serve the organization and its stakeholders.

As always, on behalf of the Board of Directors, I would like to express our sincere thanks to the Government of Manitoba, our various funders, and our dedicated donors for their ongoing support of Career Trek and its programs. Our successes are your successes. You are the heroes that keep our good work alive, and together we can work to insure Manitoba is “a place where all citizens are able to realize their full career and education potential”.

As we enter into the New Year, we are mindful that we face some challenges, but we remain confident that the work done in 2014-15 will strengthen the foundation on which our programs are built and we will continue to take “steps in the right direction” toward a brighter future for Career Trek and all Manitobans.

Barb Bowen, Chairperson, Board of Directors

CEO's Message

As an organization dedicated to helping young Manitobans on their educational, career, and life path I ask myself, "Are we making a difference"? Are we building strong foundations and a brighter future?

I constantly look at how we can evaluate our programs in more meaningful ways, pour over feedback forms, undertake research projects to look at impacts, and wring my hands over our graduation rates, always hoping that we are on the right path.

In late October I was standing beside one of our part-time staff members who said something that I have heard thousands of times. I have heard it from parents and grandparents, educators and professionals, and our post-secondary staff. Yet it was only this time that I truly appreciated the comment. As he watched his group of participants emerge from a classroom, laughing and excited, he said, "I wish I could have done this when I was a kid".

That simple sentence is one that every single person connected to our programming has heard. And, while we always strive to improve our services, it is powerful to hear from our partners and those whom we serve that what we are doing has an impact. And no one knows better, no matter where they are on their journey, than those who have the benefit of hindsight.

During our 2014-2015 year, we had the privilege of helping almost 800 hundred young people find a better road through life, connecting the education and career dots for young Manitobans translates into a brighter future and easier transitions from school to work.

Why do we do it? Because we are reminded that we are making a difference in young peoples' lives. And a better life for one ultimately means a better life for all.

Vision

A Manitoba where all citizens are able to realize their full career and education potential.

Mission

To provide Manitobans with a wide range of experiences and information designed to develop the knowledge, skills, relationships, and values consistent with career and education success.

Goals

- Increase young people's awareness of their strengths, interests, values, and abilities.
- Grow young people's understanding of skills, opportunities, and career and life options.
- Help young people navigate the important turning points of their lives through planning and preparation.
- Produce engaged citizens that are adaptable, flexible, lifelong learners that take responsibility for themselves and for others.

Donors Like YOU Make the Difference

You know, Adam was only eleven years old when he expressed an interest in writing something that would be published. His big hazel eyes lit up, and he started moving around the room with the explosion of energy that excitement and youthfulness produce.

You've seen it in your kids, grand kids, nieces and nephews, haven't you? The sheer excitement of a newfound discovery. The sensory overload that a child experiences when he or she uncovers a previously unknown possibility. The joy of opening another door onto a future bright with possibility.

"Maybe you could publish my assignment?" Adam said to his Journalism Instructor, Stephen Oliver.

Adam could barely contain his excitement. His assignment, the biography and the profile of a class mate, could find it's way into Career Trek's newsletter or maybe even their Annual Report, and it could be read by hundreds maybe even thousands of people.

It's easy to see from Adam's excitement that a door onto a future of limitless possibility opened for him that Saturday at Career Trek. And maybe, just maybe, Adam is picturing himself in that future using his newfound interviewing and writing skills in his dream job as a Journalist.

This is what you make possible.

With your support Adam gained a better understanding of a new friend, interviewing and writing skills, and most importantly the ability to think about his education and career path in ways he couldn't before.

Biography: Write a short summary (1-2 sentences) below

Gamanjot went to James Nishit school.
Gamanjot's favorite animal is an eagle.

Profile: Ask the following questions - or make up your own!

Gamanjot likes to be called Cherry. → the fun thing that ever happened to him was when he laughed so hard in trying to laugh in his free time he likes to go outside and play outside with his friends.
He's excited to go into flight!
When he grows up he wants to be a racer!

But not everyone is as lucky as Adam. For every Adam there are hundreds of children that don't get the benefit of Career Trek's transformational programming.

"It's really important. Lot's of them don't realize, or it's hard for them to see the link - between what they do now and what they do in the future - until it's shown to them. It prepares them for what they can see or be in the future," says Journalism Instructor Stephen Oliver.

This is why we need your continued support, because every child deserves the chance to dream of a successful future.

Strong Foundation, Bright Future

“For the first time ever Career Trek has signed Memorandums of Understanding (MOU) with all of its post-secondary partners,” says Darrell Cole, CEO of Career Trek. “It’s a huge accomplishment that will be one of the foundations of our future success!”

According to Cole the MOUs will clarify roles, increase efficiency, and improve Career Trek’s status and stability. The enshrining of our relationships is already reaping rewards and new initiatives and partnerships are the end result of our ongoing conversation with our post-secondary partners.

“A key component of success is managing risk, and we have done that by proactively partnering with 1Life Workplace Health and Safety,” says Melissa Hartzenberg Career Trek’s Director of Support and Administration.

According to Hartzenberg Career Trek undertook a comprehensive risk management review in 2014-15 which built a strong foundation for a successful and safe future. This accomplishment allows Career Trek to be a forward-thinking organization that manages risks before they happen.

A point of pride for Career Trek in 2014-15 was the launch of the Education Savings Program, a program announced at the 2013-14 AGM.

“We know that children with even modest amounts of savings are three-times more likely to get a post-secondary education,” says Education Savings Coordinator Lauren Reeves. “And four-times more likely to succeed once they get there.”

Career Trek’s Education Savings initiative works with participants and their families to get them signed up for the Canada Learning Bond, an opportunity to receive upto $2,000 of education savings for eligible children.

Career Trek has been busy strengthening its foundations and each of the various projects that were completed in 2014-15 will help build a brighter future for our participants, our staff, and our province.

Expenditures by Program & Department

In the 2014-15 fiscal year Career Trek had an operating budget of $1.7 million. The graph below illustrates an increase in the funding being directed toward Children Rising Parkland and Career and Resource Development. These increases showcase Career Trek's renewed commitment to providing excellent services to our First Nations and rural communities, infusing accepted career development practices into programming, and finding new revenue streams.

2014-15 Accomplishments

- Career Trek signed Memorandums of Understanding with its post-secondary partners, helping to strengthen its partnerships and ensure the longevity of its programs.
- Career Trek completed the Innoweave process, helping staff to better understand the organization's impact and strategic direction.
- Career Trek hired a third-party human resources company to conduct an organizational review that informed structural changes that increased administrative efficiency.
- Career Trek completed a risk management process—in partnership with 1Life Workplace Health and Safety—that ensures the organization exceeds minimum health and safety standards.
- New research undertaken by Career Trek's research partnership, illustrates that participants have a greater capacity to engage in career exploration (see insert for details).
- Launched the Education Saving Program! This initiative supports the long-term goals of participants by connecting families to the Canada Learning Bond and Canada Education Savings Grant, enabling them to get a head start on their post-secondary education savings.
- Designed and launched a new website platform, increasing background functionality and streamlining external communications channels.
- Individual programs created a direct link between curricula and Career Trek's career competency objectives, further deepening and strengthening the impact of our programs upon young Manitobans.
- Career Trek employs 20 full-time and 250 part-time staff, re-distributing over $1,000,000.00 back into the Manitoba economy through salaries and benefits.

Revenue by Source

Revenue by source is almost identical to 2014-15, clearly illustrating the ongoing commitment of our funders - most notably the province of Manitoba - to support Career Trek's transformational programming.
